

Evening Telegraph

PUBLISHED EVERY AFTERNOON (SUNDAYS EXCEPTED). AT THE EVENING TELEGRAPH BUILDING, NO. 106 & THIRD STREET.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 14, 1868.

The Democracy and Negro Suffrage. It is a significant fact that while the Democracy of the North are attempting to win votes for Seymour and Blair by bitter denunciations of the Congressional system of reconstruction...

In the South a widely different policy has been adopted. The prediction of a sarcastic and witty politician that if ever colored men were allowed to vote, the extreme partisans of the Democracy would not scruple to boast...

In Texas the Rio Grande Courier admonishes its readers that "we must show them as are their true friends. We must treat them with leniency. We must win them by justice and kindness."

The Democracy of Mississippi, at a recent meeting held at Yazoo City, pledged themselves in the most solemn terms not only to "confer impartial suffrage upon all men, irrespective of color," but to respect, sustain, and protect all the newly acquired legal rights of the negroes in every emergency.

In Louisiana the Democratic party treats its colored allies with equal affection and respect. The Alexandria (Rapids) Democrat boasts that they have recently had a barbecue at that place also, and that the Democratic proprietor of a hotel placed at the disposal of the colored Democracy a fine and large ball-room...

The Corn Crop.—It is a cause of general remark among those who have travelled through the eastern portion of Pennsylvania, and indeed, through all parts of the Keystone State, that the amount of corn which has been put in this year is far in excess of that of any previous crop.

denunciation of the "carpet-baggers," which concluded with the magnificent peroration that "he had rather be lathered with aquafortis and shaved with a hand-saw, or live on piles hewed out with a broad-axe than to be left in the hands of such a set of scoundrels."

In other Southern States similar movements have been made by the Democracy. Enslaving the negro as long as they could they do not hesitate now to seek political power by deceiving him in the South and by denouncing him in the North.

Mr. Seymour on the Stamp. There is a certain line of conduct marked out for Presidential candidates which has come down to us as the etiquette of a campaign, and which has never been encroached upon.

An Unsavory Subject.—A New Hampshire paper says:—"A Democratic party paper in Concord takes exception to General Abbott, late of that city, and now United States Senator from North Carolina, on account of what his moral conduct was when he dwelt in Concord."

Poor Greeley!—The New York Times has the following thrust at the philosopher of the Tribune:—"The public will be interested to know that Mr. Horace Greeley has taken up his residence in a modest country church without a steeple!"

What the President Will Do.—The New York Herald's Washington despatch to-day says:—"The question as to which side President Johnson will espouse in the Presidential contest seems to be settled at last in favor of Seymour and Blair."

Amusement Notes. At the Walnut Street Theatre the Black Crook, with its beautiful dances and magnificent scenery, will continue on the boards until further notice, which, from present appearances, is a long way off.

The Cattle Plague.—There is very general alarm in New York, and to a certain extent in our own city, also, in regard to the existence of the cattle plague among the various droves which come to the cities. We think, however, to a great extent, that this alarm is premature in Philadelphia, as we have had as yet no symptoms of the disease.

animals, taking away some of the joy by quietly saying:—"But let us look into this matter a little further. These fat, diseased cattle, we are told, are rendered into tallow. Now, we wish to inquire what is done with this tallow? We believe it is made into soap. The soap is used for washing our persons and our clothes. Thus, while we eat of the diseased beef, so far as eating it goes, we never ourselves all over with the substance of these ill cattle—with their sores—in the form of soap."

John Minor Botts has been pumped by a Brooklyn reporter, and his views obtained. The enterprising Jenkins tells us how he obtained himself upon the Hon. Botts, at the Turkish Baths in Brooklyn, when he had "just risen from his siesta, and was in slippers, without vest, and suspenders off from his shoulders."
